Further details

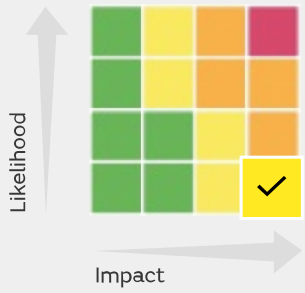
Storm Ciarán is likely to bring a spell of very strong winds to southern parts of the UK.

Winds are likely to widely gust to 60-70 mph in coastal areas whilst inland gusts may reach 50-60 mph. For English Channel coastal counties, the coastal strip may see 70-80 mph gusts with a small chance gusts in excess of 85 mph in a few of the most exposed coastal spots in southern England.

Very large waves could bring additional impacts to coastal areas, especially to parts of south Wales, and southern England.

Reason for update

Northwest Wales removed from the warning. Slight adjustments also made to warning area across England.



Very low likelihood of high impacts
